SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 23, 1866.

LOCAL MATTERS.

SEE SECOND AND THIRD PAGES.

FAYORS.—We are under obligations to FURBER JOHN MAHONEY, of the steamer Kate, and FURBER DUQUELOIN, of the steamer Victor, for late Florida and Savannah papers.

To "ENQUIRE."—Nothing more is known of the importation of slaves than what has already been published.

THE SISTERS OF MERCY gratefully acknowledge the receipt of the funeral service for the Confederate dead, in St. Catharine's Church on Friday, 22d instant.

TRINITY CHURCH.—We are authorized to state that this Church will be open for divine service to-morrow. The Pastor, Rev. W. M. MAYNARD, who has just returned from a visit to the benefit of his health, will preach in the morning at ten o'clock, and again in the evening at eight o'clock.

FIRE.—A fire was discovered issuing from the roof of a house in Congress street, and next to the residence of W. G. BENSON, Esq., at about 11 o'clock yesterday. The neighbors assembled immediately, and, with ladders, got on the roof and cut a hole, and, with much exertion, put out the flames in a timely manner, or else the whole neighborhood would have been destroyed. It cannot be ascertained, at present, whether it was from a flaw in the chimney or from an incendiary. It was occupied by colored people, and owned by a colored man named Howard. The attention of the Chief of the Fire Department is called to it especially.

WATERMELONS.—We are indebted to Mr. B. RODDIN for a fine specimen of these luxuries of the season, which was grown on his plantation on Roddin's Island, Waldo River. Mr. RODDIN also showed us two well formed Sea Island cotton bolls, from the same place, the stalk from which one of the bolls was taken being three feet two inches in height. The same gentleman informs us that the freedmen are working well, and that there is a good prospect of a fair crop.

THE BATTERY.—There will be a concert at the Battery this afternoon, commencing at 6 P. M. The splendid Band of the 6th U. S. Infantry has furnished us with the following programme for the occasion:

1. March, from Faust.
2. Duet and Finale, Opera, Montenegro.
3. Waltz and Last Flirtation.
4. Aria, from Opera Das Nachtlager.
5. Anvil Chorus, Opera, Trovatore.
6. Grand Galop Militaire, from the same.
7. Medley Quilicate, Ole Shady.

THE NEW ORLEANS MEDICAL RECORD, published twice every month in New Orleans, has again visited us. The number for June 16 has the following original communications:

- Art. I. Vesico-Vaginal Fistula, by M. Schuppert, M. D., Surgeon of the Orthopaedic Institute, New Orleans. (Continued from No. 2.)
- Art. II. Fracture of the Skull, reported by J. Stebbins King, M. D., Surgeon in charge of Mississippi State Hospital, Natchez, Miss.
- Art. III. Successful treatment of Rheumatism by the Bicarbonate and Nitrate of Potash, by S. R. Chambers, M. D.; reported by Mr. Johnson, Student.
- Art. IV. Emulsions, by W. H. Lester, City Chemist, and Apothecary and Chemist to the Charity Hospital of New Orleans.
- Art. V. Trichinosis and Trichinosis—translations from the Gazette Hobbomadaire de Medicine et de Chirurgie and the Gazette Medicale de Strasbourg, by M. Morton Dowler, M. D. (Continued from No. 2.)

There is besides quite a large amount of well selected reading matter, giving the contemporary record of medical science.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS, June 22—10 A. M.—True bills were found against JOSEPH WILSON for burglary and larceny, and DANIEL HUGHES for larceny.

PRESENTMENT OF THE GRAND JURY.

The Grand Jury called attention to the condition of the public records. Many of them have been lost, and the remainder are without arrangement. They recommended that a proper schedule of the various papers be prepared and brought to the notice of the Legislature at its next session.

The jail was not visited, as it was under the charge of the military. The slaughter pens were advised to be removed from the limits of the city. In all other matters they coincided with the presentment of the last Grand Jury.

Mr. SIMONSON, on behalf of Mr. GRAHAM, moved that he be released from confinement on bail. Mr. GRAHAM was arrested on the charge of killing Mr. ADDISON at Bamberg, S. C. Mr. SIMONSON read a number of affidavits in favor of his client. The Judge reviewed the case, and granted the bail. The prisoner was required to give a bond of $10,000, with two sureties.

The Court proceeded to try the case of State vs. Richard C. Lee, for burglary and larceny. Attorney-General J. N. Nathan and J. A. Burke, Esqrs., for the prisoner.

The following Jury was empanelled: P. West, foreman; Van Winkle, Meis, J. Dohage, McNulty, A. Kanake, G. Meisau, J. H. Hennessey, F. Nipson, J. N. Robson, W. H. Eustery, J. F. Sears.

The prisoner was indicted for burglariously entering the Mills House and taking from thence a gold watch and chain and $35, the property of Otis Mills, Esq.

The Attorney-General explained to the Jury what was the difference between burglary and larceny.

Mr. Otis Mills took the stand and testified that he was boarding at the Mills House on the 1st June. He had been in the room for some time, and he was sitting at the table and his clothes on a chair. In the morning found the watch gone and clothes on the floor, and pocket book missing. Had looked the door on retiring, but was so confused that could not say whether it was locked or not in the morning. Thought his watch was unlocked, and that the door had been administered. Informed Mr. Wells, who came up and saw the condition of the room. Has recovered the watch. It was brought to him by Mr. Puroell.

Cross-examined.—By Mr. Nathan.—Retired about 10½; was in the smoking room before he went up stairs; was certain he wound his watch and locked the door before retiring. The lock was a burglar lock, has two separate bolts, key holes not extending through. Room was on second floor, windows were opened.

Examined in reply.—His room communicated with another. The door between them was open, but passage doors were locked. His family suspected that someone might have been concealed in the room, but thought it was all imagination.

S. J. Coates, detective, sworn: Was notified to go to the Mills House, and was told that a robbery had been committed. Examined the rooms but could discover no signs of entrance to any of the rooms. Received information of a bad character like prisoner, arrested him on 4th of June, and found the same gold watch on his person, but no chain, the maker's name and number corresponding.

Cross-examined.—Watch was in prisoner's coat pocket—he said he knew nothing about the watch—that someone must have put it there.

Farrel, detective, sworn: Substantiated the former testimony.

Cross-examined.—Had seen prisoner the morning of the 4th, and furnished a clue to his arrest. Had seen one of the papers found on him and recognized it. It was an order for transportation from Washington. Prisoner stated to Farrel that he was a Captain in Confederate service, 7th La. Regt. Did not overhear more of the conversation. Prisoner had been confined on Johnson's Island, and was trying to get home.

Lieut. H. W. Hendricks, sworn: Was notified by Mr. Puroell of the robbery; sent detective, and went himself; could find nothing that would show who the self was; could find nothing that would show who the self was; could find nothing that would show who the self was.

House when prisoner was brought in: asked him what regiment he belonged to; he said 6th-Regiment Louisiana, in Hays' Brigade; he knew very little about the army or officers; prominent occurrences he was ignorant of.

Cross-examined.—Prisoner knew nothing about the questions asked him concerning the army.

J. A. Burke, Esq., opened for the defence, and in an eloquent, logical and exhaustive argument presented to the jury the points of evidence and law which were favorable to his client. The Attorney-General, for the prosecution, replied in his usual thorough style. J. N. Nathan, Esq., closed, for the defence, in a remarkably happy effort, combating the argument of the Attorney-General, and summing up in a few words the argument already fully developed by his colleague.

Judge Dawkins then charged the jury and summed up the evidence, and briefly showed them the nature of the crimes. What constituted a dwelling house and wherein breaking into it constituted burglary, and the fine line that lay between that crime and larceny, and requested the jury to consider the matter before they agreed upon a verdict. He criticized the character of the prisoner and reviewed the testimony by which the defendant offered to prove him a Confederate officer. A man's character was his only shield. If that man is arrested under suspicious circumstances, and cannot prove a former good character to mitigate against the charge, his chances are bad. A stranger stands in a peculiar light, and great caution was necessary, in the case of a second time offender, to imagine him to be a rogue, and condemn him too hastily.

The jury retired, and after an absence of a few minutes returned with the verdict of guilty on the second indictment—larceny.

MAYOR'S COURT, Friday Morning, June 22.—The increased pay of the Police seems to have a highly beneficial effect, not only on them, but also on the citizens, for only one prisoner appeared at the bar, and that was for some one else carelessly throwing a tumbler of beer out of a street window. He was discharged with a caution.

Another party was reported for a trifling offence, but fearing to expose his face to the photographer, he settled the matter outside.

PROVOST COURT, June 22.—United States vs. James Mitchell (colored).—Stealing.—WILLIAM W. SAMPSON, sworn: I received information about the tenth of May that the defendant had stolen fruit from my plantation and was selling it on his own account.

Scipio Miller, sworn: I was running Mr. SAMPSON's boat, when defendant put on board a barrel of apples, containing about a peck and a half; they were half green and were selling at $2.50 a peck. He brought them from the Horibock place. I don't know where he got them. The landing is on Horibock's place. We left there about 3 o'clock that night. No orchard around there, but that apples like them were growing there. Mr. SAMPSON rents the Horibock place.

Sarah Perrin, sworn: Defendant told me he carried apples from this place and sold them; this was about a month ago in the Horibock house; when we were talking we both lived there. Guilty, $10 and twenty days' labor on the streets.

United States vs. MICHAEL WHELAN, (white).—Assault and battery on Billy Norman, (colored).—Defendant pleads guilty. $15, or fifteen days' labor on the streets.

On the civil side of the Court there was a boat case, somewhat amusing and somewhat more tedious, which tried the apparently inexhaustible patience of the Judges to the utmost extent. The main point seemed to be to prove a disputed warranty. In listening to the call of witnesses the following query frequently suggested itself: By what right do the colored people of this State appropriate the ancestral names of their former owners?

THE CONFEDERATE DEAD AT DARLINGTON, S. C.—The Southerner of yesterday is filled with the details of the ceremonies of the 16th of June at that place. It says:

The memorial ceremonies enacted by the ladies of this place Saturday, the 16th, in honor of the Confederate dead, though hastily prepared for, proved an untrodden success. Those who attended will not soon forget the scene. How solemn and touching it was, words cannot express. We overheard a gentleman, whose eyes overflowed as he spoke, say, "This is the most solemn funeral I ever attended." And we thought he expressed the common feeling. It was no hollow-hearted ceremonial. The services and ceremonies but thinly covered a great grief, fresh and passionate, the wild throbbings and swellings of which they could not and did not conceal.

The weather was propitious, the day being clear and cooler than had been anticipated. Between 10 and 11 A. M., the bells of the churches, all tolling together, assembled at the Baptist Church the whole white population of the village. The young, the middle aged and the aged were there, their hearts bowed together by the ties of a common and profound feeling. Immediately in front of the church stood, as if placed there by some magic, a beautiful cenotaph of pure white, bedecked with flowers and evergreens and inscriptions. From the apex gracefully hung a magnificent magnolia wreath with the motto—

"To our gallant dead, They fought like brave men, long and well."

The shaft was beautifully decorated with flowers and evergreens, and upon the sides of the pedestal were inscribed the following names of soldiers of the District not buried at this place. The list is very incomplete, owing to the short time the Committee of Arrangements had for their collection, and we are requested by the ladies to state that those citizens of the District who have in their power to furnish the missing names will confer a favor, by sending them in without delay.

Co. D, 21st S. C. Vol.—First Sergt, E. F. White, 6th S. C. Vol.—J. A. Brunson.

Around the plinth was a laurel wreath with the motto: "We twine the laurel wreath Over this consecrated sod, We bid their deeds live on forever, And their souls find rest in God."

The sides of the plinth were most tastefully decorated and inscribed. On the east side beautifully enwreathed in evergreens, we noticed the following motto:

"To our unknown dead," A boon, an offering, Heaven holds dear, 'Tis the last libation Liberty draws, From the heart that bleeds and breaks in her cause." Around the cenotaph, for many minutes, lingered the large assemblage, their lips subdued tones of the dead, of their characters and deeds.

The exercises were opened by a most impressive prayer by Rev. W. A. GARNETT, rising fully to the occasion, and melting every heart. When the pathetic voice of the venerable minister ceased to be heard, there were few dry eyes in that large assemblage.

Col. F. W. WALKER next delivered a beautiful and appropriate address.

The Southerner concludes its remarks by saying: The services and ceremonies of the day passed off without one marriage incident to disturb their mingled beauty and solemnity. They have left us with hearts softened, and we trust, made better. In "the house of mourning" are taught valuable lessons. We are glad to be able to state that the ladies are determined to do still more for the dead soldiers, whose memory is so precious to them. They are resolved that their names shall not starve, nor their children grow up without education. Their plans will be made public.

He in good season, and meantime, they solicit the assistance and co-operation of the ladies of the whole District. The country is impoverished, it is true, but we believe that there is that in the hearts of our people which will sustain and make gloriously successful this noble resolve of our women.

Bathing-goulins salt water or sea baths can be had here whenever the tide suits; also, excellent refreshments. Visitors to the Battery this evening had better stop and look in at Mr. KILROY'S. A splendid view of the harbor may be had from the Observatory at the Bathing House.

PROPHETRY FULFILLED.—"And in those days the blind shall see." Habakkuk—6 ch., 17v. Verily the words of the prophet are coming to pass! Surely the days of the world are well numbered. From every quarter, and on the testimony of the most trustworthy witnesses, we are informed that the Australian pebbles introduced into this country by Professor BRANNHART are working miracles. To an uninitiated person it seems the work of magic, that a man so near-sighted as to grope about the world in broad daylight should, by merely putting on a pair of spectacles, be able to walk without inconvenience even in the night, but it can easily be explained on scientific principles, as any one can be convinced who will call at the Professor's office, Mills House, Parlor No. 4.

"Canst thou not minister to a mind diseased, And bid some soul oblivious to doze, Cleanse the foul bosom of the perilous stuff That weighs upon the heart?"

Certainly; PLANTATION BITTERS will do it when nothing else will. Melancholy, Depression, Hypochondria, Insanity, all spring, more or less, from a diseased stomach, and this PLANTATION BITTERS is a sure cure for. There is no mistake about it; Dyspepsia, Headache, Dizziness, Ague and Low Spirits must yield to the health-giving and genial influence of the PLANTATION BITTERS. If you are in doubt make one trial and be convinced.

HOMOEOPATHIC MEDICINES.—The Homoeopathic system of medical practice has become one of the fixed institutions of American society. It can hardly any longer be considered an experiment. Dr. HUMPHREYS, whose advertisement appears in our columns this week, has long and successfully given his attention to the preparation of specifics for the various ills which flesh is heir to, and is placing them in the reach of all who may wish to test their virtues.—Dunkirk Journal.
